Survey Results of Reissue Applications Screened During FY 1980

During fiscal year 1980, 655 reissue applications were screened by Licensing and Review before being forwarded to the appropriate patent examining group for examination. Approximately 8% of the applications involved patents sought to be reissued which were at the time of filing or had been previously involved in litigation. About 23% of the applications were filed under 37 CFR 1.175(a)(4) with no substantive changes to the specification, claims, or drawings. Informal data from the Examining Groups showed that of 119 protests reported as being filed during fiscal year 1980, 102 or 86% of the protests were filed in reissue applications.

Beginning January 1, 1980, the Office implemented a screening program by which all reissue applications disposed of by the Office are screened for compliance with PTO rules and procedures. The results of the survey ending September 30, 1980, showed that of the 280 reissues screened, 211 or 75% of the applications were allowed while 26 or 9% of the applications had been protested. The survey further showed that approximately 8% of the applications screened revealed that the patent sought to be reissued was or had been involved in litigation. The table which follows summarizes the survey data in greater detail. The data is divided into two categories, namely, applications indicating past or present litigation and applications revealing no litigation.

United States Adherence to the International Union for the Protection of New Varieties of Plants (UPOV)

On November 12, 1980, the United States deposited its instrument of acceptance of the 1978 text of the UPOV Convention. The United States was the second State to adhere to this text, New Zealand having earlier done so.

The UPOV Convention will take effect with respect to the United States and the other adherents to the 1978 text upon a total of five adherences, three of which must be by present member States (States adhering to the 1961 text of the Convention). We expect at least three present member States to adhere shortly and the 1978 text to take effect, therefore, during 1981.

The United States deposited its instrument of acceptance on the basis of the legal protection offered for asexually reproduced plants under the plant patent law (35 U.S.C. 161–164). Accordingly, the Convention will apply only to asexually reproduced plants protected under this law. Steps are now being taken, however, by the Plant Variety Protection Office of the Department of Agriculture to conform the implementation of the Plant Variety Protection Act (7 U.S.C. 2321 et seq.) to the Convention's requirements. When this is done, the United States will notify the UPOV Secretariat that the Convention is also applicable in the United States to sexually reproduced plants protected under that Act.

Questions concerning the UPOV Convention may be directed to the Office of Legislation and International Affairs of the Patent and Trademark Office. This Office may be addressed as follows: Box 4, Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks, Washington, D.C. 20231. The Office's telephone number is (703) 557–3065.

SIDNEY A. DIAMOND,
Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks.
